Description

The objective of the Copia select: Short Duration Bond portfolio is to provide a yield pickup over and above cash. The strategy invests predominantly into investment grade corporate bonds funds, with limited exposure to high yield & emerging market short duration investments.

The strategy uses a blend of actively managed and passive index funds, selected by Copia, with a tactical asset allocation overlay driven by the Copia Risk Barometer.

This approach is for clients with a short-term investment horizon. The short duration bond portfolio is diversified across a global basket of investment grade, government, high yield and emerging market bonds. Risk management is conducted through tactical asset allocation which is directed by the in-house Copia Risk Barometer tool.

(1) The volatility of the portfolio is 3.5% (31st October 2022), calculated by Copia using BlackRock Capital Market Assumptions, and for Suitability purposes represents risk level 3. Volatility on the portfolio will be monitored on an ongoing basis and managed accordingly. For illustration, the equivalent volatility for a Cautious [level 4] portfolio is 5.2%.

(2) The portfolio yield to worst is monitored on a daily basis. If there is a material reduction in yield, then IFA's will be notified. Copia aim to take all reasonable steps to avoid causing any foreseeable harm to customers. If the yield on the portfolio compresses to 5% and then again 3%, notifications will be sent out at both points to assist Advisers assessing ongoing Suitability and equip customers to make informed good decisions based on price and value. Ultimately, at a lower yield (c2%) this portfolio may no longer represent an attractive investment proposition delivering the required value for money to those retail customers and Copia will again in that scenario prompt those invested to assist Advisers in fulfilling their Customer Duty to deliver a good outcome for retail customers.
